DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 12 July 2002 has been entered.

Specification

2. The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.
3. The use of the trademark TRITON X-100 has been noted in this application. It should be capitalized wherever it appears and be accompanied by the generic terminology.

Although the use of trademarks is permissible in patent applications, the proprietary nature of the marks should be respected and every effort made to prevent their use in any manner, which might adversely affect their validity as trademarks.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35

U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

6. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

7. Claims 23-31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Goldberg et al., in view of Brenner.

8. Goldberg et al., disclose a method of detecting a target nucleic acid wherein a substrate is provided that comprises a plurality of nucleic acid probes; that a target nucleic acid is hybridized to the immobilized probe and that the target nucleic acid comprises a binding ligand

9. Goldberg et al., column 12, discloses a variety of labels that can be used in the disclosed method. As seen in said column 12, the label can be particles.

10. Goldberg et al., do not teach explicitly of using microparticles.

Art Unit: 1634

11. Brenner also discloses a nucleic acid assay wherein solid supports are to be used.

Column 6 provides an extensive listing of suitable solid supports, including the same gold particles disclosed by Goldberg et al., as well as microparticles. Column 8 discloses that microparticles are a preferred embodiment.

12. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time that the invention was made to have substituted microparticles as disclosed by Brenner for the gold particles disclosed by Goldberg et al., as such would allow for a readily available means for detection. In view of the well-developed nature of the assay, the skilled artisan would have had a most reasonable expectation of success as said artisan would have been simply substituting one detectable label for that of another where.

13. For the above reasons, and in the absence of convincing evidence to the contrary, the claims are obvious in view of the prior art of record.
